Who We Are

Praxis Spinal Cord Institute is a Canadian-based, not-for-profit organization that leads global collaboration in spinal cord injury research, innovation and care. Our Commercialization program is focused on accelerating medical devices and diagnostic innovations that can improve the lives of people living with SCI. We bring together the best in class research, commercialization and PLEX in the area of SCI to provide companies with the tools needed to scale and develop their innovation internationally.

An Ecosystem of Innovation

Commercialization at Praxis supports innovators through a continuum of programs, starting with early-stage ventures in SCI Incubate and maturing to post-prototype in SCI Accelerate.

“The quality of mentors, advisors, and researchers at Praxis is world-class, in just a few short weeks, we’ve already gained tremendous value.”

RAHUL SAMANT, CEO OF REHABTRONICS
